Biography of Daryl Urig

Daryl Urig, raised near the shores of Lake Erie in Avon Lake, Ohio, is a self-taught painter. His surroundings during his early childhood influence much of his work, even to this day. Painting has always been Urig's passion, which his work clearly reflects, through its attention to detail and cool colors. The textural detail and glisten of his pieces are immaculate, and they reflect the joy he takes from his artwork.

In high school, he won a Hallmark award for painting. He continued his formal training at the Columbus College of Art and Design where he received his Bachelor of Fine Arts in Illustration. During his senior year in college, Dialogue Magazine chose one of his works for their cover. He further supplemented his training, taking courses in illustration and figure drawing at the DuCret School of Arts.

Following his formal training, Urig illustrated for magazine and book covers in New York and New Jersey. In 1984, he moved to Cincinnati, Ohio to design and illustrate advertisements and packaging for Proctor and Gamble. In 1986, he designed and painted the poster promoting the Cincinnati Oktoberfest.

Urigo now resides in Harrison, Ohio, just outside of Cincinnati. He's a member of the Portrait Society of America, Oil Painters of America and Cincinnati Art Club. He's also an adjunct professor at the University of Cincinnati, and the owner of Total Media Source Inc., an internet marketing company. His paintings are currently represented by Closson's of Cincinnati, Hilligoss Galleries in Chicago, and the Haley Gallery in Columbus.

His paintings have been featured in galleries and exhibits all over the United States, including Ohio, Colorado, New York, South Carolina, Indiana, Illinois and Kentucky. The Toledo Art Museum has featured his "On the Road" series for two years. In 2008, "The American Artists Professional League" awarded him the Presidents Award for his painting entitled, "Dancing Light." On March 7th, 2010, he won the Arnold Choice Award from Arnold Schwarzenegger at the Arnold Sports Event for his painting of the California Governor.
